TOWN LIBRARY

The library continues to be well patronized. The books on agriculture and forestry are not read as much as they should be by our farmers.

Several interesting books have been donated and volumes of state reports and legislature books have been received and catalogued.

REPORT

OF THE

Springfield School Board

In our last annual report, we gave some of the requirements of parents, guardians and all interested in the education of school children.

We think the attendance and work of the scholars this year has been a decided improvement upon former years. A few of those required by law to attend constantly were not as punctual nor attended through each term sufficiently to comply with the requirements.

The School Board may have been remiss in not enforcing the more constant attendance without a satisfactory reason for absences.

So far as we could judge all pupils that were in school practically each day during each term, showed marked and satisfactory improvement. We think we have some as good scholars of their age, in the several branches taught, as may be found in any country town.

It is somewhat difficult to select and procure the services of teachers peculiarly adapted to the conditions of each school and each scholar. We secured the services of teachers, well educated, well recommended and have no criticism of their school work. It is impossible to retain teachers for several terms in succession unless they can have the support of the parents and School Board with the co-operation of all. One school has been very fortunate by having the same teacher for several successive terms and years. It is of the utmost importance that we withhold criticism of school, scholars or teacher in public.

A single person may injure the whole school not only for one term but for many succeeding terms by talking that their girl or boy is unjustly treated by teacher or older scholars.

If each would try to help and encourage all to be obedient, punctual and observant of all school rules and regulations, better results would be obtained.

Fellow citizens, please read and re-read our last annual report and let us all endeavor to have our schools, for years to come, improve and our children better fitted for a higher education and the duties of true American citizens.

Respectfully submitted,

CHARLES McDANIEL,
ELWIN F. PHILBRICK,
CARL B. PHILBRICK,

February 14, 1912.
